

Jessica Hakala: ReMix Yourself 2

Here's your chance to play art museum curator! Inspired by the MIA's Art ReMix program, we invite you to create your own ReMixes between contemporary (after 1960) and historic (before 1960) works in the MIA's collection. Art ReMix* is an exciting exhibition project that juxtaposes contemporary artworks amid the MIA's permanent collection.

Here's how to ReMix Yourself!

We provide a new contemporary work of art each week, and you ReMix it with an historic one, explain your ReMix, and then share it with the world, comment and rate other people's ReMixes, and more! There will be a new ReMix Yourself every Monday through July 26, 2010, so check back often!

Here are 6 easy steps to ReMix Yourself:

Register and sign in to ArtsConnectEd. Duplicate this ReMix Yourself ArtCollector Set and rename it First Name Last Name: ReMix Yourself 2

Use ArtFinder to search the MIA's collection for something pre-1960 to ReMix Yourself with the post-1960 work we've supplied. Once you find your ReMix image, add it to your ReMix Yourself set. In the Display Annotation for the image you've added, explain your ReMix (why you chose the image you did). Submit your ReMix Yourself set for publication. ## Sensuality in Glass and Paint

I began by making a list of all the words that came to mind upon viewing Chihuly's Sunburst: serpentine, passionate, vibrant, brilliant, intense, sensuous. This last word seemed to best describe the piece in the way it seemingly affected my senses.

The exotic curling arms of the sunburst are a visual playground, forcing the viewer's eye to move with each tentacular protrusion and the ambient yellow glow cascades warmth. It looks like some flaming celestial body—burning with an internal life—the crackling sound of which can almost be heard.

Van Gogh's Olive Trees may seem like an obvious choice to compare, but it is the one that I kept going back to. After all, I can think of no other artist who rivals Van Gogh's intensity of color and sensuality of brushstrokes. This piece demonstrates both of those qualities rather well, particularly in the vibrating, yellow sky. It is reminiscent of Chihuly's piece; both are flamboyant, alive, and ultimately communicate on a sensual level.
