

Ashley Griffin: ReMix Yourself 4

Here's your chance to play art museum curator! Inspired by the MIA's Art ReMix program, we invite you to create your own ReMixes between contemporary (after 1960) and historic (before 1960) works in the MIA's collection. Art ReMix* is an exciting exhibition project that juxtaposes contemporary artworks amid the MIA's permanent collection.

Here's how to ReMix Yourself!

We provide a new contemporary work of art each week, and you ReMix it with an historic one, explain your ReMix, and then share it with the world, comment and rate other people's ReMixes, and more! There will be a new ReMix Yourself every Monday through July 26, 2010, so check back often!

Here are 6 easy steps to ReMix Yourself:

Register and sign in to ArtsConnectEd. Duplicate this ReMix Yourself ArtCollector Set and rename it First Name Last Name: ReMix Yourself 4

Use ArtFinder to search the MIA's collection for something pre-1960 to ReMix Yourself with the post-1960 work we've supplied. Once you find your ReMix image, add it to your ReMix Yourself set. In the Display Annotation on the slide for the image you've added, explain your ReMix (why you chose the image you did). Submit your ReMix Yourself set for publication. The thing I like about Your Dog, other than the playful appearance, is the big red nose. The contrast between the white dog and red nose is eye catching. Another artwork I think uses red to grab the viewer's attention is Chagall's The Poet with the Birds. When walking through the galleries, I always find myself drawn to the woman wearing red.
