

Amanda Rundahl: ReMixYourSelf 10

Here's your chance to play art museum curator! Inspired by the MIA's Art ReMix program, we invite you to create your own ReMixes between contemporary (after 1960) and historic (before 1960) works in the MIA's collection. Art ReMix* is an exciting exhibition project that juxtaposes contemporary artworks amid the MIA's permanent collection.

Here's how to ReMix Yourself!

We provide a new contemporary work of art each week, and you ReMix it with an historic one, explain your ReMix, and then share it with the world, comment and rate other people's ReMixes, and more! There will be a new ReMix Yourself every Monday through July 26, 2010, so check back often!

Here are 6 easy steps to ReMix Yourself:

Register and sign in to ArtsConnectEd. Duplicate this ReMix Yourself ArtCollector Set and rename it First Name Last Name: ReMix Yourself 10

Use ArtFinder to search the MIA's collection for something pre-1960 to ReMix Yourself with the post-1960 work we've supplied. Once you find your ReMix image, add it to your ReMix Yourself set. With its Minnesota setting and airplane imagery, I always think of famed aviator and Minnesotan Charles Lindbergh when I see this Alec Soth photo. There's another photo of Soth's from the same series that depicts Lindbergh's bed in his boyhood home in Little Falls, MN. So, I chose this Charles Lindbergh textile panel to remix with the Soth photo - it includes images of the Spirit of St. Louis and a portrait of Lindbergh woven into it. It was made in 1933, one year after the tragic kidnapping and murder of Lindbergh's son Charles Jr.
