

Marcia Thompson: ReMix Yourself 11

Here's your chance to play art museum curator! Inspired by the MIA's Art ReMix program, we invite you to create your own ReMixes between contemporary (after 1960) and historic (before 1960) works in the MIA's collection. Art ReMix* is an exciting exhibition project that juxtaposes contemporary artworks amid the MIA's permanent collection.

Here's how to ReMix Yourself!

We provide a new contemporary work of art each week, and you ReMix it with an historic one, explain your ReMix, and then share it with the world, comment and rate other people's ReMixes, and more! There will be a new ReMix Yourself every Monday through July 26, 2010, so check back often!

Here are 6 easy steps to ReMix Yourself:

Register and sign in to ArtsConnectEd. Duplicate this ReMix Yourself ArtCollector Set and rename it First Name Last Name: ReMix Yourself 11

Use ArtFinder to search the MIA's collection for something pre-1960 to ReMix Yourself with the post-1960 work we've supplied. Once you find your ReMix image, add it to your ReMix Yourself set. In the Display Annotation on the slide for the image you've added, explain your ReMix (why you chose the image you did). Submit your ReMix Yourself set for publication. The right angles and solidity of these two pieces connect them in my mind....even though the cube is "incomplete", it has a sense of stability and presence that I also see in Wright's chair. One utilitarian, one not...I'd like to see them in the same room.
